Communicating Your Research: A Talk by Kyle Marian

Date/Time
 Date(s) - Thursday, May 16, 2019
 3:00 pm - 5:00 pm

Location
CUNY Graduate Center, room 9204

About the Talk

How is laughter a symptom of connection, and how can academics use it strategically for impactful communication? When communicating your research, there are plenty of methods and media that allow you to connect your message to your target audience (whether they are the general public, policymakers, patients, or stakeholders). Each form has its strengths and its weaknesses and in this introductory talk, science communicator Kyle Marian will share why the art of comedy is a powerful tool for connecting with diverse target audiences, and the lessons academics and researchers can take from a comedian's work to apply to what they do.

We also encourage you to attend the follow-up workshop to this talk, Improve Your Research Communication Skills, on May 23.

This event is sponsored by the CUNY Central Office Career Success – Workforce Development Initiative.

Kyle Marian is a science communicator & former physical anthropologist, now focusing her work on multimedia and performance science communication/public outreach. She has performed in and produced public lectures, general science podcasting, science blogging, talk radio, and provided workshops/training speakers for public events such as TEDx and comedy storytelling. She produces a monthly stand-up show called The Symposium: Academic Stand-Up featuring academics & researchers she's trained to translate their obscure research & work life into comedy for wider audiences. She is also the social media manager for Guerilla Science, an international organization bringing science to new audiences in unexpected ways. She has a passion for using comedy in science communication and has recently been training with the Upright Citizens' Brigade to hone her improv and writing skills. Internationally, she's performed academic stand-up comedy through the UK's Bright Club community, even taking the BBC stage during the Edinburgh Festival Fringe in 2015.

Please RSVP
 Please fill out our event registration form to let us know you're coming.

Position Title:
Instructor of the Humanities /Social Sciences, Bard Sequence Program.
 (instruction sites in the first semester of the program are located in Orange, New Jersey and Brooklyn, NY)

About the Bard Early Colleges and the Bard Sequence Program:
 The Bard Early Colleges (BECs) are founded on the belief that many high school-age students are eager and ready for the intellectual challenges of a college education. The Bard Early Colleges act on this belief by providing younger scholars with a tuition-free, credit-bearing college course of study in the liberal arts following the 9th and 10th grades. Students are taught by college faculty in seminar classes and earn college credits up to an associate in arts (A.A.) degree from Bard College, concurrently with a high school diploma. Now in its second decade, the Bard Early College network serves over 2,850 students in campuses in New York City, New York; Newark, New Jersey; New Orleans, Louisiana; Cleveland, Ohio; and Baltimore, Maryland.

Bard invites applications for a dynamic individual who seeks to join a new initiative of the Bard Early Colleges – the Bard Sequence – being piloted in SY 2019-20. Through partnerships between Bard College and public high schools and school systems, the Bard Sequence allows students in the 11th and 12th grades to take Bard College's signature interdisciplinary humanities "Great Books" Seminar-Sequence on site at their schools, taught by an instructor selected and trained by Bard. The Bard Sequence offers students earlier exposure to college study and the opportunity to earn 12 Bard College credits over four semesters.

Position Requirements:
 The successful applicant for this position must be committed to teaching college classes to high school-age students. A terminal degree in a humanities or social sciences field is required (candidates who are ABD will be considered); candidates with high school and college teaching experience are preferred.

Key responsibilities:
 The responsibility of a Bard Sequence faculty member is to teach Bard College's signature humanities seminar course ("The Bard Sequence") to students enrolled in high school at a partner public school. Instructors will have access to curricular resources, professional development, and a community of instructors teaching the course. Faculty will teach between two and four sections of either Freshman or Sophomore seminar, or a combination of both.
 Bard Sequence faculty is required to participate in pre-course training and ongoing professional development to aid in the teaching of the dual enrollment courses. This professional development is overseen by the Director of the Bard Sequence and the Bard Early Colleges, Bard College's early college division. Bard Sequence faculty report to the Director of the Bard Sequence.
Expected Start Date:
 August 2019
Location:
 Two sites
 One instruction site is located in Brooklyn, NY
 An additional is located in Orange, NJ
Please check GC Connect for more details about this job.

Process Improvement and Evaluation Intern
Lenox Hill Neighborhood House's Research and Evaluation team
 Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, widely recognized as one of New York's premier human services providers, is a 125-year-old settlement house that provides an extensive array of effective and integrated services—social, educational, legal, health, housing, mental health, nutritional and fitness—which significantly improve the lives of thousands of people in need each year, ages 3 to 103, on the East Side of Manhattan. Our clients include older adults, homeless and formerly homeless adults, children and families, recent immigrants, persons with disabilities, adult learners and thousands more. Our programs—staffed by social workers, educators, public interest lawyers, advocates and many, many others—include an Early Childhood Center, RealArts After School Program and Summer Camp, Women's Mental Health Shelter, permanent supportive housing residence, two Senior Centers, arts-based day program for adults living with dementia, Geriatric Care Management program for frail seniors, Food Services, Legal Advocacy Department, Health and Wellness, Fitness & Aquatics, Adult Education and more. For more information on Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, please visit our website at www.lenoxhill.org.
 We are seeking a Process Improvement and Evaluation Intern to join Lenox Hill Neighborhood House's Research and Evaluation team for 150 hours in the 2019 Fall Semester. Working closely with our Director of Research and Evaluation, Bradley Matthus Moore, PhD, the Process Improvement and Evaluation Intern will help support our organization's ability to create, analyze, and use data to improve client services, program operations, and organizational efficiency.
 The primary focus of this internship will be assisting in the development of a predictive algorithm to better balance caseloads in our Geriatric Care Management program. The Neighborhood House's Geriatric Care Management Program provides comprehensive care management services to 1,800 frail and homebound older adults living on the East Side of Manhattan from 14th Street to 143rd Street. The Neighborhood House is able to make a profound difference in the lives of these vulnerable individuals, helping them overcome crises and providing the services, support and community they need to remain independent, to feel connected, to achieve better outcomes and to live fuller and healthier lives.
 Other responsibilities during the internship may include:
 • Assisting in survey distribution and analysis;
 • Inputting and cleaning data to ensure it accurately reflects program operations;
 • Assisting in the design and development of analysis and project reports for senior staff to ensure they have all the information they require to make effective decisions;
 • Collaborating with organizational programmatic staff at all levels; and
 • Participating in special projects to assess program and organization-wide impact.

Research Ethics Intern (American Civil Liberties Union)
This internship is administered and funded through the PublicLab at The Graduate Center, CUNY.
ABOUT THE ACLU
 For nearly 100 years, the ACLU has been our nation's guardian of liberty, working in courts, legislatures, and communities to defend and preserve the individual rights and liberties guaranteed by the Constitution and laws of the United States. Whether it's ending mass incarceration, achieving full equality for the LGBT community, advancing racial justice, establishing new privacy protections for our digital age, or preserving the right to vote or have an abortion, the ACLU takes up the toughest civil liberties and civil rights cases and issues to defend all people from government abuse and overreach. With more than one million members, activists, and supporters, the ACLU is a nationwide organization that fights tirelessly in all 50 states, Puerto Rico, and Washington, D.C., for the principle that every individual's rights must be protected equally under the law, regardless of race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, disability, national origin, and record of arrest or conviction.
INTERNSHIP OVERVIEW
 The ACLU seeks a Research Ethics Intern for Fall 2019. This intern reports to the ACLU Director of Research. The Director of Research and the Research Ethics Intern are housed in the Communications Department of the ACLU's National Office in New York City. The Director of Research leads the ACLU's policy research program through collaboration with legal, advocacy, and communications staff across the organization. In addition to working with the Director of Research on ongoing policy research projects, the Research Ethics Intern would assist in developing standards and procedures for ensuring ethical human subjects protections for ACLU's research.
ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES
 • In consultation with the Director of Research, manage the development of new standards and procedures related to human subjects protections in ACLU's research efforts, including criteria for review, training opportunities, and resources for compliance, such as informed consent templates and other standard form language.
 • Engage stakeholders across the national organization and state affiliates in the development and dissemination of new human subjects protections standards and procedures.
 • Participate in regular Communications Department meetings and occasional cross-departmental meetings.
 • Help manage database of current policy research literature, including conducting literature reviews.
 • Provide editing and proofreading support of materials for internal and external audiences, such as reports and presentations.
 • Other duties to support the development of ACLU's policy research infrastructure.
 The ACLU is an equal opportunity employer. We value a diverse workforce and an inclusive culture. The ACLU encourages applications from all qualified individuals without regard to race, color, religion, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, age, national origin, marital status, citizenship, disability, veteran status, and record of arrest or conviction.

Summer Fellowship, Museum of Pop Culture

Application deadline: May 13, 2019

Eligibility: Level 2 and 3 doctoral students. Students graduating in September 2019 are still eligible.

Originally known as Experience Music Project (EMP), MoPOP opened in June 2000. EMP's mission was to explore creativity and innovation in popular music. However, over the last 17 years since its inception, the museum has evolved, and was driven by a greater mission: to make creative expression a life-changing force by offering experiences that inspire and connect our communities. From this, MoPOP expanded in its scope and was able to reach a broader audience, reflected in its new name as the Museum of Pop Culture.

Since its launch, the museum has organized more than 85 original exhibitions, including but not limited to: Bob Dylan's American Journey, 1956-1966; Nirvana: Taking Punk to the Masses; Star Trek: Exploring New Worlds; Can't Look Away: The Lure of Horror Film; and Fantasy: Worlds of Myth and Magic.

MoPOP's core values rest on five guiding principles: Open arms – practicing radical hospitality and equitable access; Creative exchanges – creating a space for community voices and collaborations; Light bulb moments – using pop culture as a catalyst for learning, connecting, and creating; Pursuing excellence – believing in integrity, innovation, and hard work leading to amazing things and; Excitement – valuing the thrill that comes from experiencing creativity together. In order to continue to grow and reach an even greater audience it is essential that MoPOP seeks venues past the realm of Seattle, WA, one such place is New York City.

Starting June 2019, the MoPOP Summer Fellow will work closely with, and be supervised by, MoPOP's curatorial director to research and develop content for an exhibition about pop culture and New York City.

The fellowship will include:

- Conducting historical and original research for exhibition content
- Researching, sourcing, and selecting images and media
- Researching and sourcing potential artifacts
- Researching key artists and experts for filmed interviews and helping to conduct interviews
- Working with the exhibition design firm on content development
- Communicating with other museums, institutions, and lenders

Requirements

- Strong research, writing and organizational skills
- Strong communication skills
- Serious love of pop culture and deep knowledge of New York City
- Available for weekly check-ins with curatorial director via technology (Zoom, Skype, etc.) to discuss progress
- Available for monthly in-person meetings with curatorial director and exhibit design firm in New York City

Fellows will receive

- The fellow selected will be hired by Vulcan Personal Services and will include the standard Vulcan NDAs, and allow her/him to work in New York City. The fellow shall be paid $25 per hour for 200 hours over nine weeks (10-30 per week) for a total amount of $5,000
- The fellow is not eligible for benefits, but she/he will be reimbursed for transportation pass for the duration of the fellowship.
- Additionally, at no cost to the fellow, Vulcan will fly her/him to Seattle for the Vulcan intern orientation taking place on June 17, 2019. This will include a tour of MoPOP, hotel and per diem provisions. Please note, human resources at Vulcan will provide and coordinate all respective travel to and from Seattle, WA.

Timeline

- April 29, 2019: Applications open.
- May 13, 2019: Applications due.
- May 24, 2019 to May 27, 2019: Interviews conducted.
